the latest changes to impact fleets

Plans for a new Ultra-Low Emission Zone (ULEZ) in central London have been brought forward and are now set to be introduced in 2019.

Once the ULEZ comes into effect, older vehicles which don't meet emission standards will have to pay £12.50 a day to drive through the zone, while larger vehicles will face a daily charge of £100.

Before the ULEZ arrives, there will be a daily £10 emissions surcharge, known as T Charge, for the highest polluting vehicles entering the Congestion Charge Zone. This is due to run from October 2017 until the ULEZ comes into effect in 2019.
